things that went on in 1958-59...

This thirty-fourth volume of the Napanet has been published so that in 1959, and in years to come, its pages may be read to recall the inimitable memories which this school year holds for each person who has been a part of "Inside Eastside."

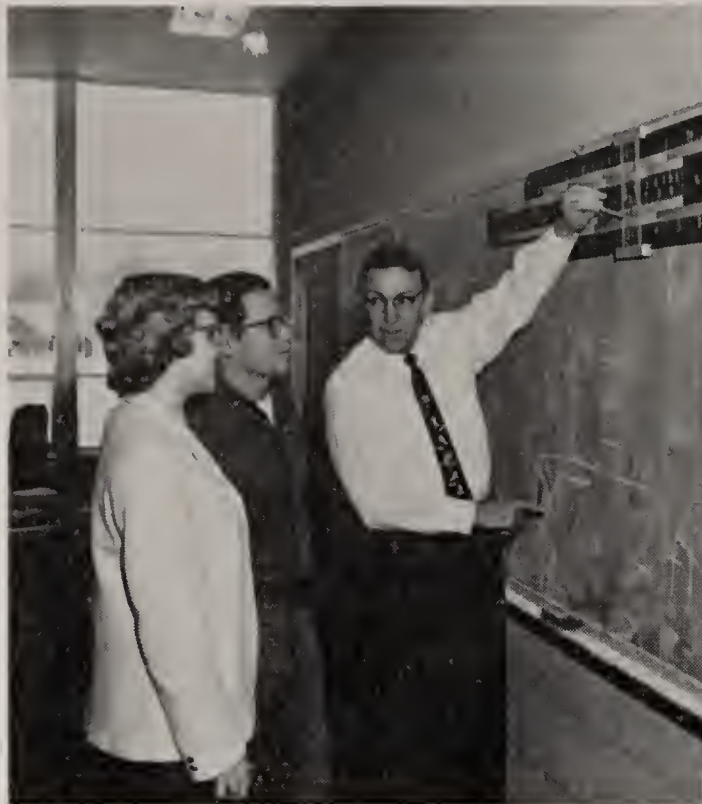

Sharon Stuckman, Lee Price, Joanne Peltier, and John Hostetler believed in "the pause that refreshes."

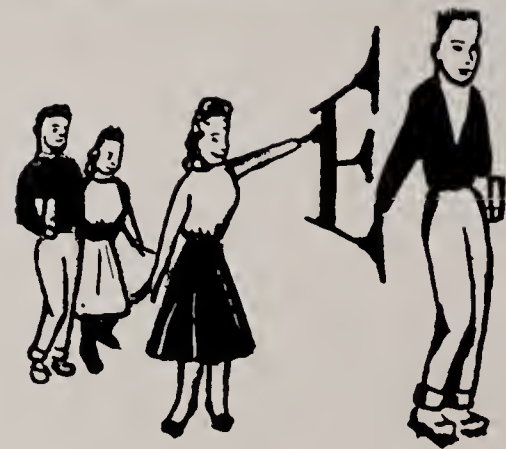

Classes and problems were part

Mr. Hartle taught Steve Hockert and Carole Arnold the principles of the slide rule.

Lee Hochstetler and Larry Otto measured volts.

Diana Shaw pointed out an interesting article to Steve Hockert, Sheriy Gonser, Pat Warren, and Gary Eastlund.

Because of the stress on science education, physics and mathematics have become two very important courses in our school. These elective subjects, with their daily problems and experiments, developed our minds and broadened our understanding.

U.S. History taught us about the life our forefathers and kept us up to date on the latest news.

of the inside story.

English, speech, and Latin are courses which will help us in our future lives.

In senior English class we were taught the fundamentals and mechanics of our language. We were also urged to write, write, write, in preparation for college.

Speech class is always very active with its Halloween skit and Christmas play. These activities will help the students have greater self-confidence when associating with others.

Latin is also important to the future occupations of many of our students.

Gary Eastlund, Sharon Stuckman, Carolyn Miller, Erla Deiner, Leon Ringenberg, Margo Miller, Jim Stouder, Dick Pletcher, Stan Heckaman, Sarah Wright, Joyce Zentz, and Jeanie Culp rehearsed "Why the Chimes Rang."

Sarah Wright, Dick Conrad, Judy Otto, and Judy Schori learned from Mrs. Milne to conjugate verbs.

Mrs. Miles explained the day's lesson to Larry George, Jim Rassi, Jo Ann Getz, and Ruby Chupp.

Variety in courses satisfied

In mechanical drawing class Chuck Blevins, Phil Evans, Jan Cleveland, and Stan Lopp had no qualms where perspective was concerned.

Betty Andrews, Laney Cavendar, and Loretta Marvel worked industriously to finish their sewing projects.

Sewing, home management and planning were stressed in the home economics class this year.

Mrs. Rood taught Jeanie Culp, Loretta Marvel, Joy Burcham, and Larry George the techniques of silk screening.

The art class did many interesting things such as silk screening, which enabled students to make their own Christmas cards.

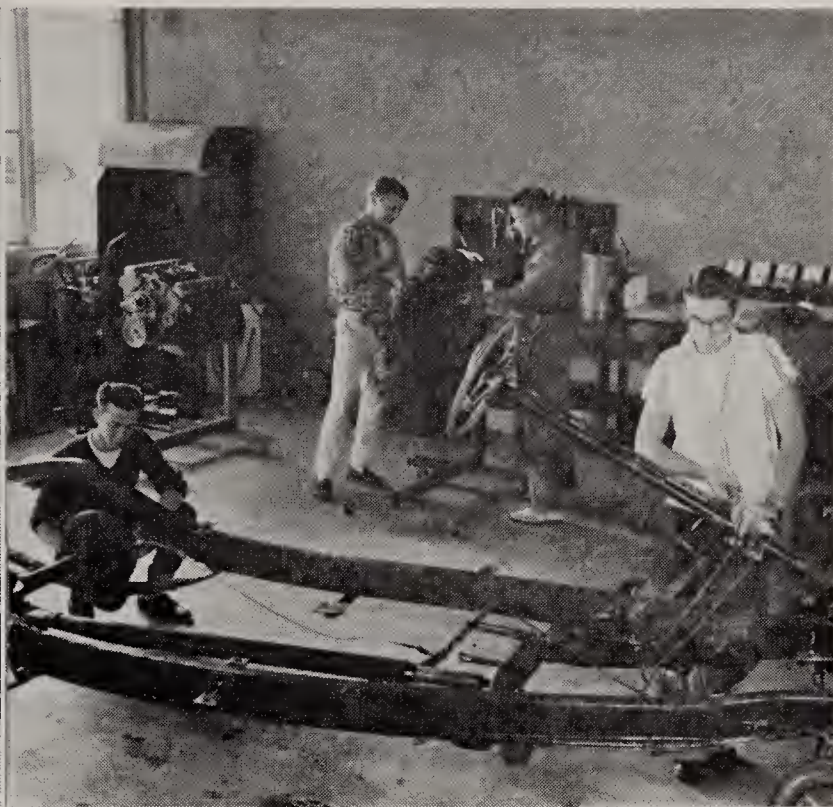

The advanced typing and shorthand class never lacked work, which included typing contest essays, learning proper filing techniques, or working on the "D'Bulldog."

the preferences of all students.

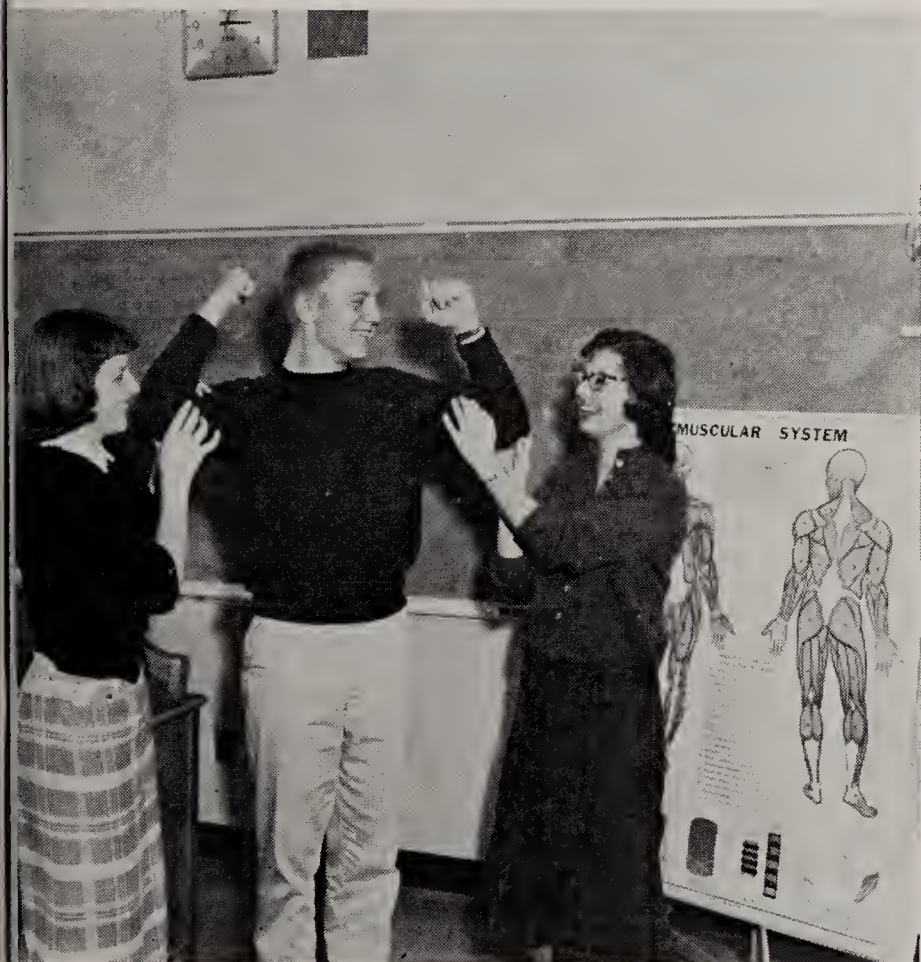

These students of the advanced typing and shorthand class hurried to 'beat the clock.'

Bob Williams, Leon Ringenberg, John Enkoff, and Ronnie Dean worked on the chassis of an old car during the afternoon shop class.

Rob Lehman flexed his biceps for Sandy Martz and Kaaren Chandler.

The seniors ate heartily at the Senior Y-Teen picnic.

George Freese 'flew blind' at one of our assembly programs.

The junior class decorated the goalposts for one of the home games.

Before the Plymouth game the cheerleaders posed by the hall decorations.

Speech class presented a skit entitled "An Apple for the Teacher" at the Halloween Festival.

The sophomore class starred in "The Farmer's Daughter."

From September

When the calendar signaled our return to East-side in September, young minds entered school, thinking not only of the many hours that must be put to studying and preparation, but also to the many events which would take place through the coming year. From that first day to the last, each hour held something new for us to experience.

Athletic contests, musical programs, club projects, parties, plays, and many other activities filled the days' schedules.

Seniors were first in line to purchase their basketball season tickets.

to May the calendar promised

Gary Culp, Portia Mutschler, and Dick Conrad charted the progress of the junior magazine sales.

Mrs. Miles' home room lost to Mr. Postma's in the magazine sales.

Mr. Springer and Mr. Best seemed to enjoy participating in the donkey basketball game.

At the beginning of the year, new members were initiated into the F.H.A. club.

... programs, parties, pep-sessions,

The advanced art class designed the Madonna window for the speech play.

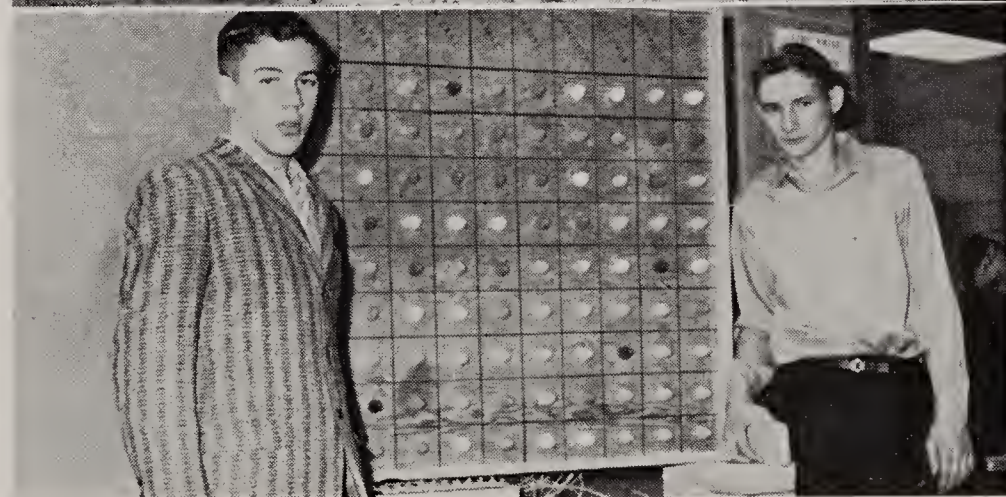

Larry Otto, Dennis Swihart, Marietta Holderman, and Dick Pletcher took part in the annual Christmas drama.

banquets, plays.

Dick Pletcher and Chuck McFall helped move the trophies to the new trophy cases.

Paul Hochstetler, Gary Culp, and Gary Stutzman sorted the clothes that were collected during the Hi-Y clothing drive.

The National Honor Society polished the trophies which were to be displayed in the new trophy cases.

The spotlights were focused

The highlights of the school social life were the dances. These dances were made possible by Teen Town and the Journalism Club.

In the fall we had the "Pilgrim Rock" sponsored by the Journalism Club. At Christmas time came the "Snowball," and on Valentine's Day was the "Valentine Dance" sponsored by Teen Town.

Martha Hartman and Glenn Bowen had a ball at the "Pilgrim Rock."

Larry George, Pam Phillips, Sandy Warren, and Gary Culp swayed to the music at the Snow Ball.

Mr. John R. Thompson, center, awarded first prize for the most unique Valentine corsage to Sandy Nichols and Leon Ringenberg. Second honors went to Linda Price and Chuck Blevins.

Kathy Homan, Steve Price, Jill Stahly, and George Freese truly enjoyed the Valentine Dance.

on dances and the reception.

Mr. Ridenour entertained guests by hypnotizing Jim Hamsher to the amazement of Linda Jones and Pat Thompson. The will was read by Mike Pippenger, Sandy Nichols, Ronnie Dean, and Margo Miller. Martha Hartman, Pat Leer, Ron Hollar, and Larry Nunemaker read the prophecy.

The 1958 Junior-Senior Reception was held in the Athenian Room in the Hotel Elkhart.

As the guests entered the ballroom they were introduced to the theme "South Sea Island Magic" by a treasure chest filled with jewels. The centerpieces were miniature islands, and several palm trees throughout the room gave the illusion of true tropical splendor.

Mr. Ridenour, a hypnotist, provided the entertainment for the evening.

Music was then provided for those who wished to attend the prom.

A palm tree and treasure chest greeted guests to South Sea Island Magic.

Projects helped seniors stride on

Carole Arnold, John Hostetler, Vonda Wysong, and Tom Richmond stopped rocking and rolling long enough at the senior record hop to have their pictures taken.

John Hostetler, Eddie Shaw, Margo Miller, and Ronnie Wilson took their turns selling concessions during half-times at ballgames and at wrestling matches.

"Let's go to New York," was the cry of the seniors. They worked hard selling concessions at basketball games and at wrestling matches. Before the Christmas holidays they sold candy.

They also sponsored a record hop, which turned out to be a profitable success.

Carolyn Miller, Vonda Wysong, Helen Umbaugh, Stan Heckaman, and Phil Arnott sorted the boxes of candy to be sold by the seniors.

to New York City.

When Wilbur's parents leave on a business trip, he turns the Maxwell home into a boarding house in order to earn money for a bicycle. The Maxwells return unexpectedly, only to discover that there is no room for them; Mr. Maxwell sleeps uncomfortably on the floor.

Among the guests are bank robbers whom Wilbur helps to capture after Dad, having been mistakenly identified as a member of the gang, has spent an unhappy night in jail.

"Oh my back!" complained John Maxwell.

"Hoiman" threatened to throw John out into the street.

Mrs. Mott and Lucy Burns were two of the queer house guests.

Mrs. Mott spent a restless night sleep-walking.

Mrs. Maxwell fainted when father was taken to jail.

Roughhouse Ruby coached "Hoiman," double time.

Wilbur foiled Limpy and Nora in their get-away plans.

This year several new clubs were formed and became a part of our well-rounded activities program. We feel that these extra-curricular activities, as well as the academic subjects, are important in the student's life.

One project of the Student Council was to plan and present the half-time ceremony of the crowning of the Blue and White Queen.

Deadlines often challenged Napanet

Sharie Hoyt, Gary Culp, Carole Arnold, and Miss Hoover worked diligently to complete the Napanet.

John Coppes, Stan Heckaman, Mr. Weddle, and Jim Rassi looked over plans for financing the Napanet.

As you look at these memory filled pages in the years to come, we hope you will get as much pleasure out of them as we did in putting them together.

Despite the trying moments and ever-so-close deadlines staring us in the face we had an enjoyable experience producing this Napanet for you.

Close harmony

The chorus, under the direction of Mr. Roberts, participated in several programs during the year. The one hundred voice choir blended melodious voices in a great Christmas concert. The chorus also went to contest this year, winning praiseworthy honors.

The goal of the group was to start earning money in order to purchase robes for future choirs.

made music popular at Eastside.

Joann Ingraham, Anita Corwin, Janet Burcham, and Vonda Wysong were the accompanists for various groups under the direction of Mr. Roberts.

The Boys' Quartet included Stan Heckaman, Dick Pletcher, Lewie Naylor, and Lee Hochstetler.

The ensembles of the chorus made sweet music for many occasions. The groups sang a couple selections at the Christmas concert and participated in the District Vocal contest where each ensemble received a superior rating, thereby winning the honor of entering the State Contest.

Portia Mutschler, Joanne Slabaugh, Diana Evans, Maxine Welty, Susie Templeton, Jean Culp, Janet Burcham, Judy Schori, Vonda Wysong, Joy Burcham, Martha Hartman, Joann Ingraham, Larry Otto, Stanley Heckaman, Lewis Naylor, Dick Pletcher, Larry George, and Marvin Eastlund were the members of the Mixed Ensemble.

Bands performed and merited honors.

This has been a year of pleasant memories for the band members. Participating in the Elkhart Centennial parade and playing under the direction of Howard Barlow, world renowned conductor, were two thrilling experiences.

The excellent rating earned in each contest in which the band participated proved that the organization, as in years past, continued to bring honors to our school.

The band council consisted of Carol Hoffer, Joann Ingraham, Linda Price, Loren Berger, and Stan Heckaman.

Pat Leer, Pam Phillips, Pat Masterson and Connie Haney strutted at football games.

"Frosty the Snowman," alias Jeanie Culp, danced at the Christmas band and chorus concert.

"I in my cap" Stan Heckaman narrated the "Night before Christmas."

"You're flat!" "Think higher." "Wonderful!" "You can do it if you try," were just a few of the expressions used by the student director, Stan Heckaman, during the school year.

This was a busy year for the pep band which played at all the home basketball games and pep sessions.

From the dramatic "Star Spangled Banner" to the fast stomping music of "Rebel Rouser" the band boosted the cheering section and team to a successful year.

Under the direction of Stan Heckaman the pep band tooted a mean horn at pep sessions and basketball games.

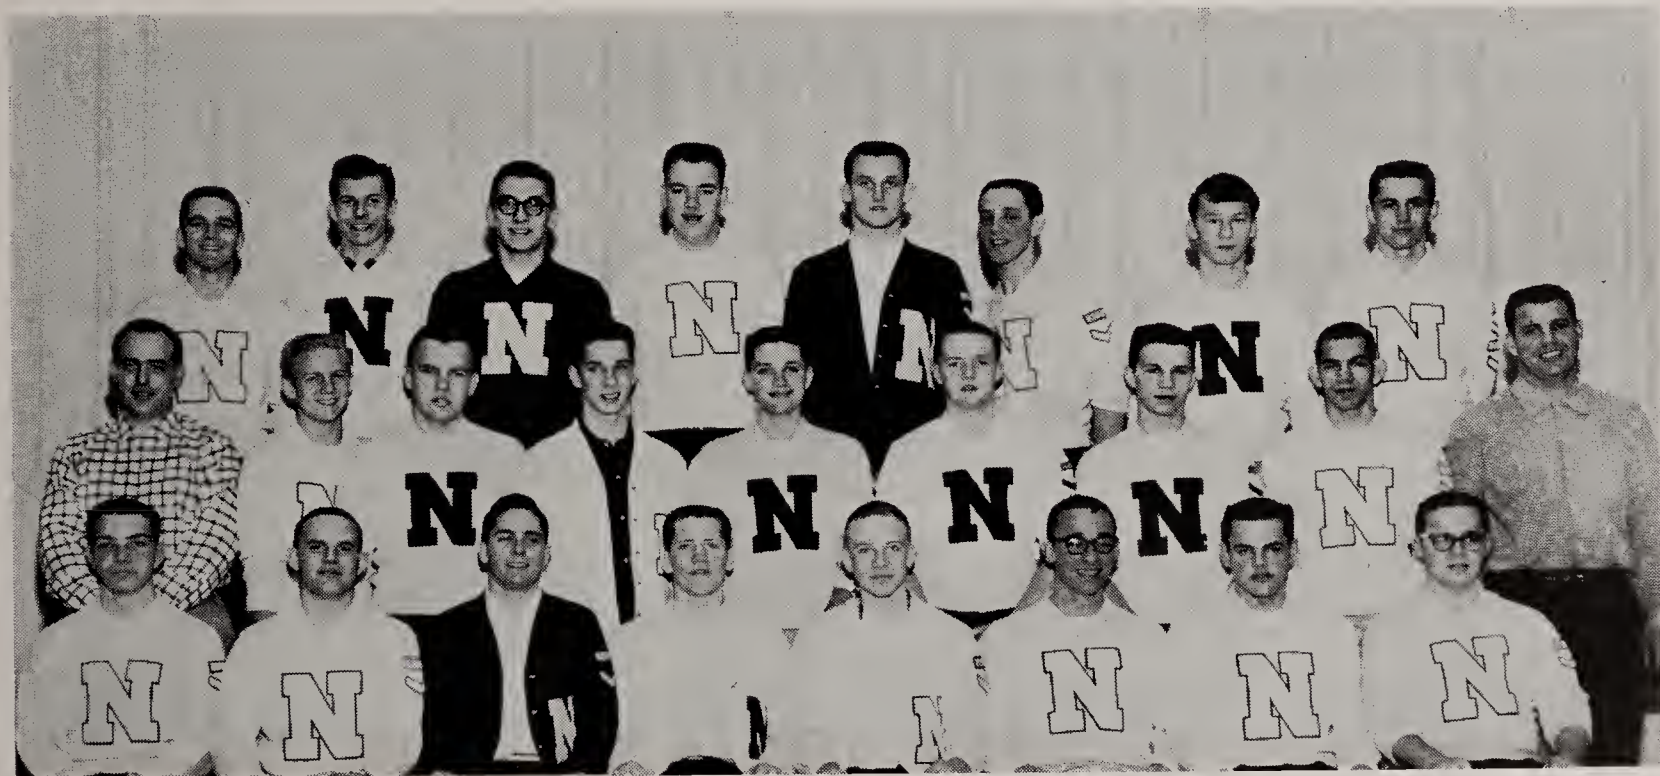

President Dick Pletcher, Treasurer Tom Richmond, and Secretary Mike Mitchell talked over plans for the N-Men's Banquet.

A boy who wins a letter in any sport qualifies for the privilege and honor of belonging to the N-Men's club.

Through the year the group made money by having a carwash, securing sponsors for the basketball programs, and by having the annual N-Men's Banquet in which the athletes and the coaches were honored. On that occasion awards were given for the most valuable player in each sport, and an award was given to the most valuable senior player.

With the money the club earned the members took trips to see professional athletic events.

N's were not earned without effort.

First Row: Dale Fink, Dick Conrad, Mike Mitchell, Gary Stutzman, Phil Evans, Lee Price, Dennie George, Steve Hockert. Girls also attained athletic skills.

"Ball three, strike two" was one of the many echoes heard when the Girls' Athletic Association was having a meeting. Many of the girls participated in playdays and several games were held with other schools throughout the year.

Sue Pippenger, Helen Umbaugh, and Janice Miller received state plaques, the highest honor given by the organization. This was the first year a girl from Nappanee has achieved this goal. A number of numerals and letters were also awarded to various members.

Vice-President Ruth Greenawalt, Secretary-Treasurer Janice Miller and President Helen Umbaugh sauntered down the hall.

Books, films were tools for learning.

An interest in library work was the basis of membership in the Library Club. Mending books, giving book reviews, and serving as student librarians were the main activities of the members.

The Projectionists club was made up of a group of visual-aid enthusiasts interested in projectors and films. These boys were trained to show films throughout the school and community.

Honor students set high standards.

President Dick Pletcher, Secretary-Treasurer Martha Hartman, and Vice-President Carole Arnold discussed plans for the annual Christmas tea.

Scholarship, service, leadership, and character formed the basis for selection of the National Honor Society members.

The group completed the framed display of the names of all National Honor Society members from the chartering date in 1936 to the present time.

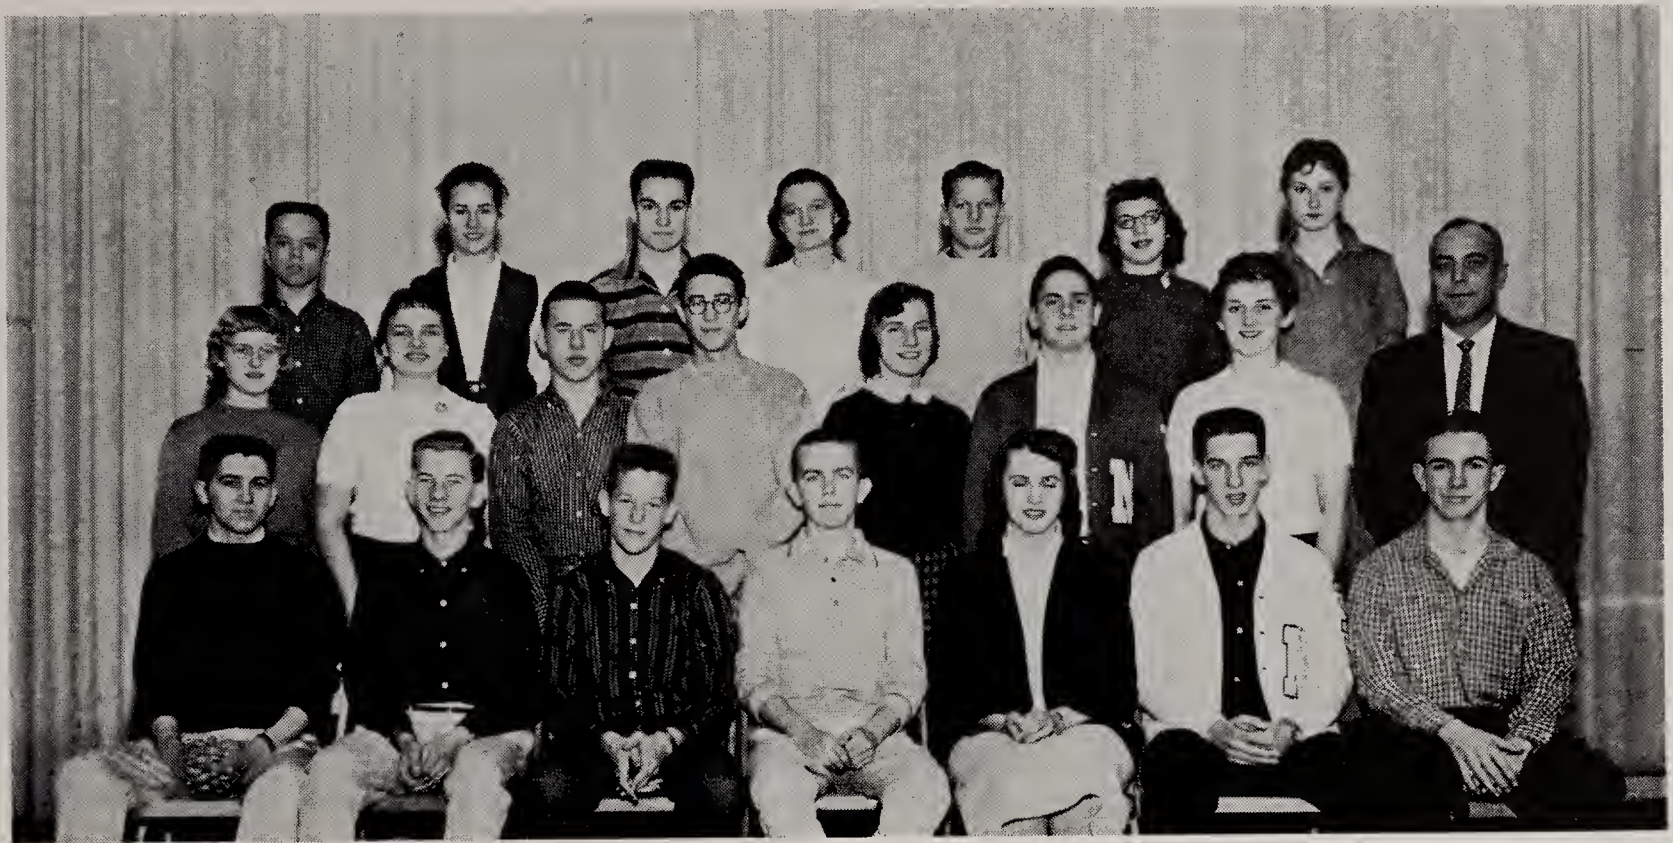

During the Christmas holidays all Nappanee High School juniors and seniors planning to attend college, and all former members of the society who were attending college, were invited to a "College Night," a social event which the group hopes will become an annual affair.

The society also had charge of refreshments and ushered at the Civic Theater productions.

The solutions for problems arising in our school, locker inspections, choosing of next year's assembly programs, decorating the Christmas tree, supervising the cheer leader elections, and the crowning of the "Blue and White Queen" were all part of the activities of the Student Council.

The membership consisted of the National Honor Society members and one representative from each of the underclassmen homerooms.

Vice-President Carole Arnold and President Martha Hartman posed for "Jorg" after a meeting.

The eventful year began with members enjoying a wiener roast at Syracuse Lake. During the Christmas season the traditional Mother-Daughter Banquet was held. A record hop with Bruce Saunders as the disc jockey earned money for gifts presented to the school for retarded children of Elkhart County.

Secretary Linda Price, Vice-President Susie Templeton, President Martha Hartman, and Treasurer Sandy Smith considered the prospective yearly projects.

Clean speech, sports, scholarship and Achieving the purpose of the Hi-Y—to create, maintain, and extend throughout the home, school and community high standards of Christian character—was the chief goal of the club this year.

The Senior Hi-Y organized the Infantile Paralysis Dime Line and conducted a clothing drive for the Save the Children Federation. The club also sponsored a record hop and sold Bulldog booster license plates.

President George Freese, Vice-President John Coppes, Treasurer Mike Orn, and Secretary Stan Heckaman made plans for the clothing drive.

living were the platform of the Hi-Y.

Revising the constitution was the initial project of the Junior Hi-Y. In order to send two members to the Hi-Y Camp in the summer of 1959, the group sold Christmas cards.

President Stan Lopp, Vice-President Rob Lehman, Treasurer Randy Weddle, and Secretary Randy Richmond posed outside Eastside.

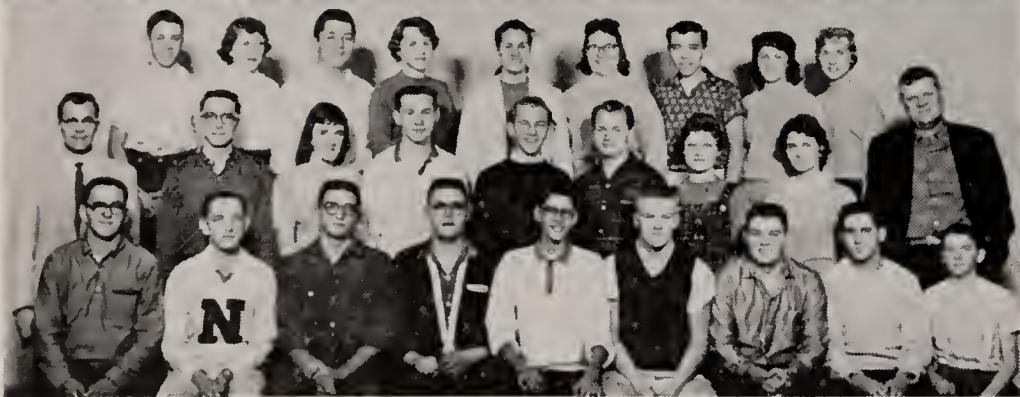

There were clubs for varied talents.

In its meetings the Palette and Brush Club concentrated on the diverse fields of art. Many guest speakers inspired members to continue to express themselves in the medium of art, even if they will not be Rembrandts or Grandma Moseses.

The Latin Club was a new organization this year. Among its various programs was the Roman Banquet at which the Latin II class presented a play. Members of the group reported having a "Romangood" time.

"Teens With a Growing Purpose" was the goal of the Future Homemakers of America. In striving to be a State Honor Chapter the club carried out various programs on this theme.

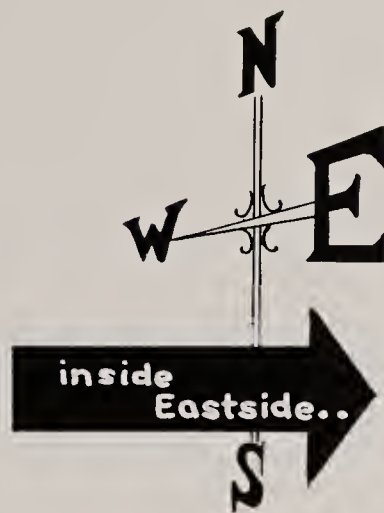

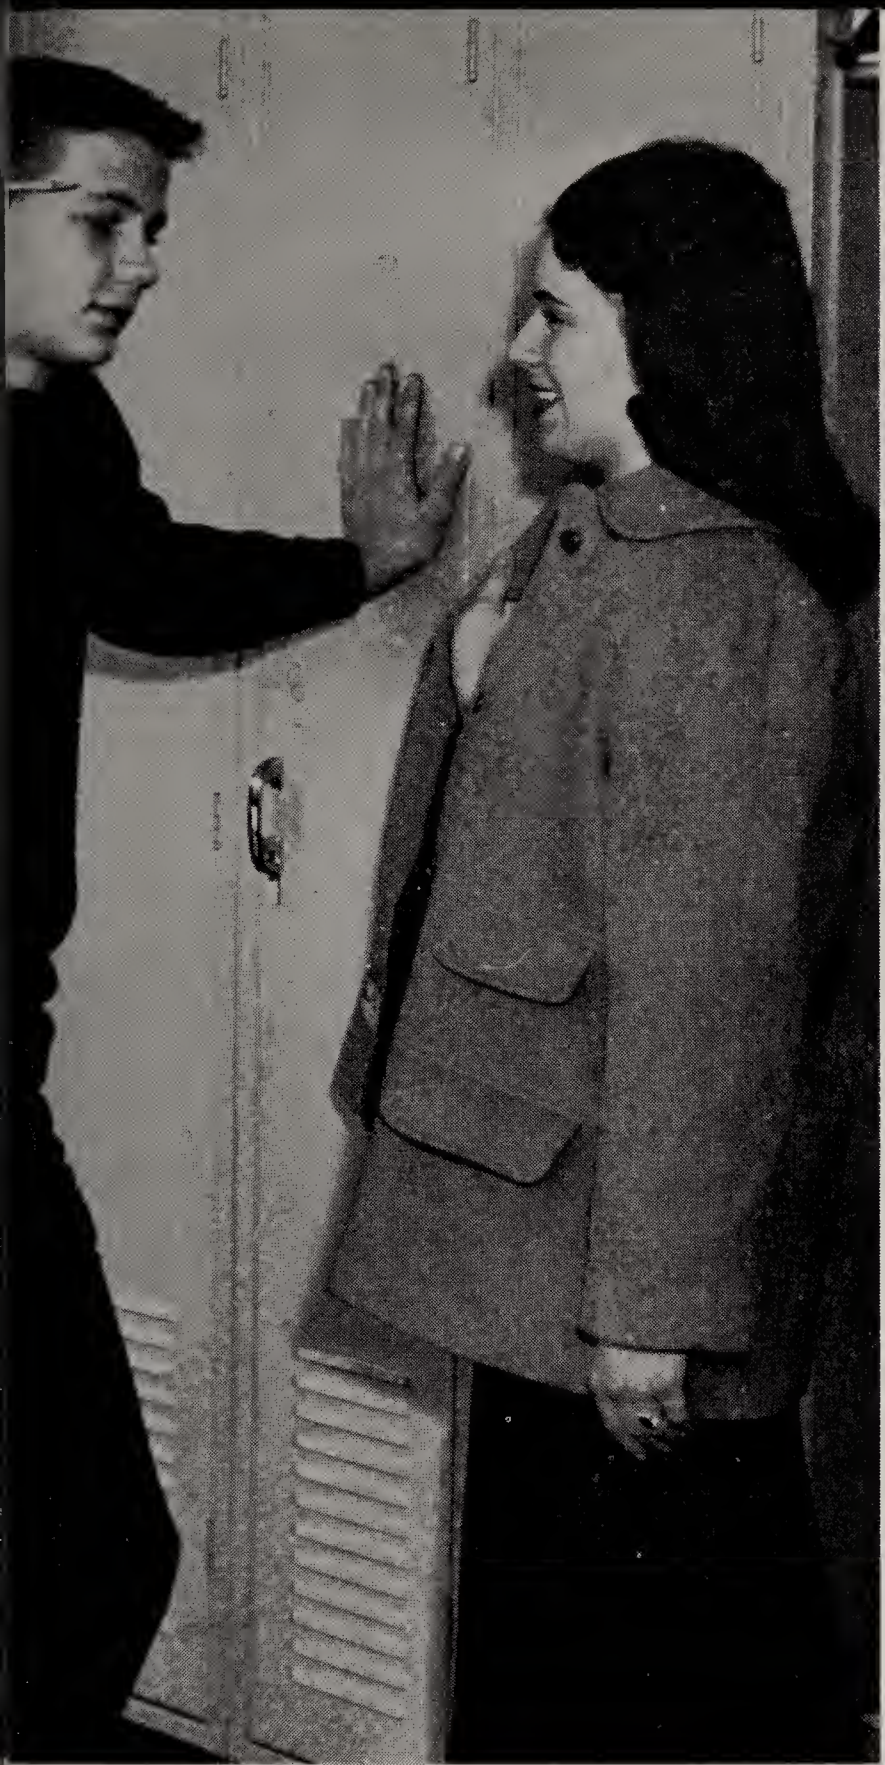

The money-making projects were the sponsoring of a chili supper and a bake sale. The Mother-Daughter Banquet held in May climaxed the purposeful year.

The Future Farmers of America was an organization whose purpose was to prepare students to be better farmers.

As is customary, a Parent and Son Banquet was held.

Two delegates represented the group at the State F.F.A. convention held at Lafayette.

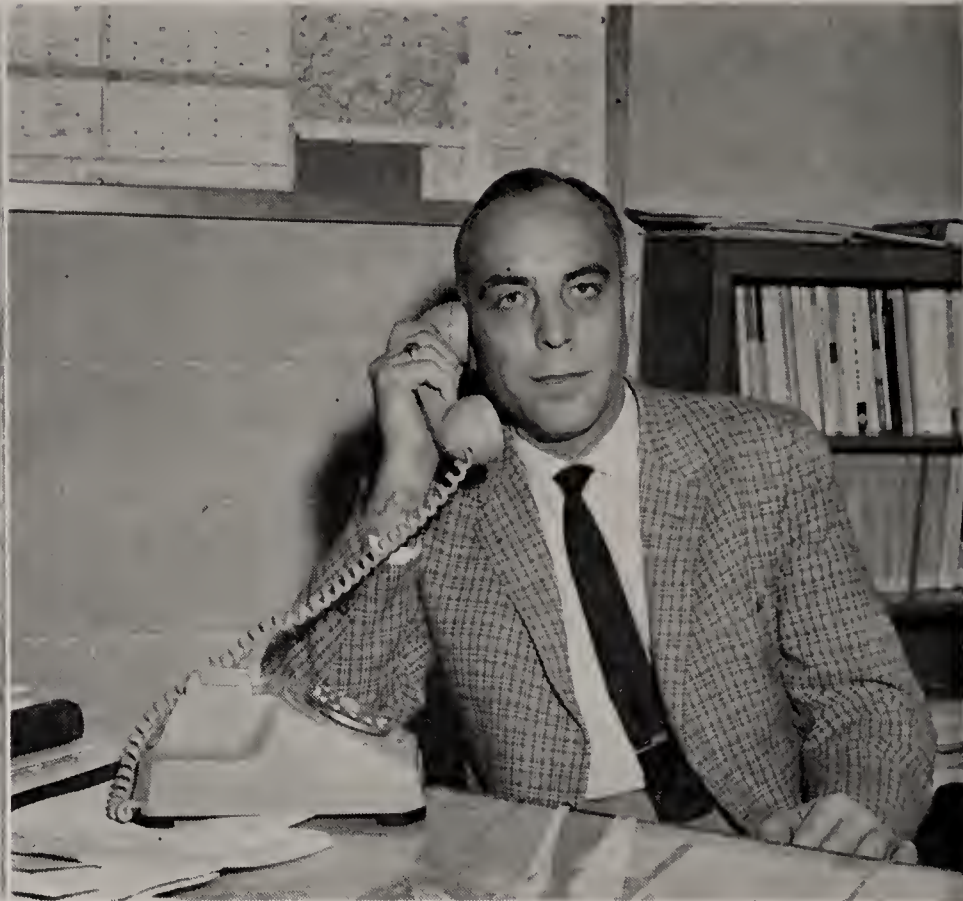

Seniors sold concessions to earn money for the long-awaited senior trip; juniors received their class rings; sophomores made a hit at the Halloween Festival; freshmen settled down to high school life.

We proudly introduce the students, administrators, office personnel, faculty, and others who worked with these people at Eastside.

Administrators provided the best.

Haskell B. Osborn, Superintendent

James O. Weddle, Principal

Mr. Osborn, our capable and genial superintendent, had many duties which he performed to keep our schools running smoothly. The demands of higher high school standards and our increasing school enrollment kept Mr. Osborn and a dedicated school board constantly on the alert in securing a faculty to meet the needs of a modern educational system.

Mr. Weddle, our principal, guided us through another year filled with many unforgettable experiences. He planned our curricular and extra-curricular activities, listened to and advised us in our problems. Among other things, he promoted a commendable school spirit by his constant efforts to make ours a school recognized as outstanding in sport and academic achievements.

Secretaries personified efficiency.

Barbara McDonald was always busy with the secretarial work for Mr. Osborn.

Mildred Phillips, Mr. Weddle's secretary, did paperwork, answered telephone calls, and performed many miscellaneous tasks.

Mrs. Rogers kept the activities, athletic, and cafeteria records in a competent manner.

Sandy Martz, Maribeth Price, Mary Kindig, Jo Ellen Hossler, Janice Miller, and Suzie Neibert helped in the office during their study halls.

Health, food and cleanliness rated.

Our Florence Nightingale was Annie Woodhams. During the flu epidemic she was especially busy handing out pills and taking students home at all hours of the day. But no matter how busy she was, she was always ready to give advice.

Every day when our stomachs and the clock told us it was time to eat, the cooks had a delicious nutritious meal ready for us.

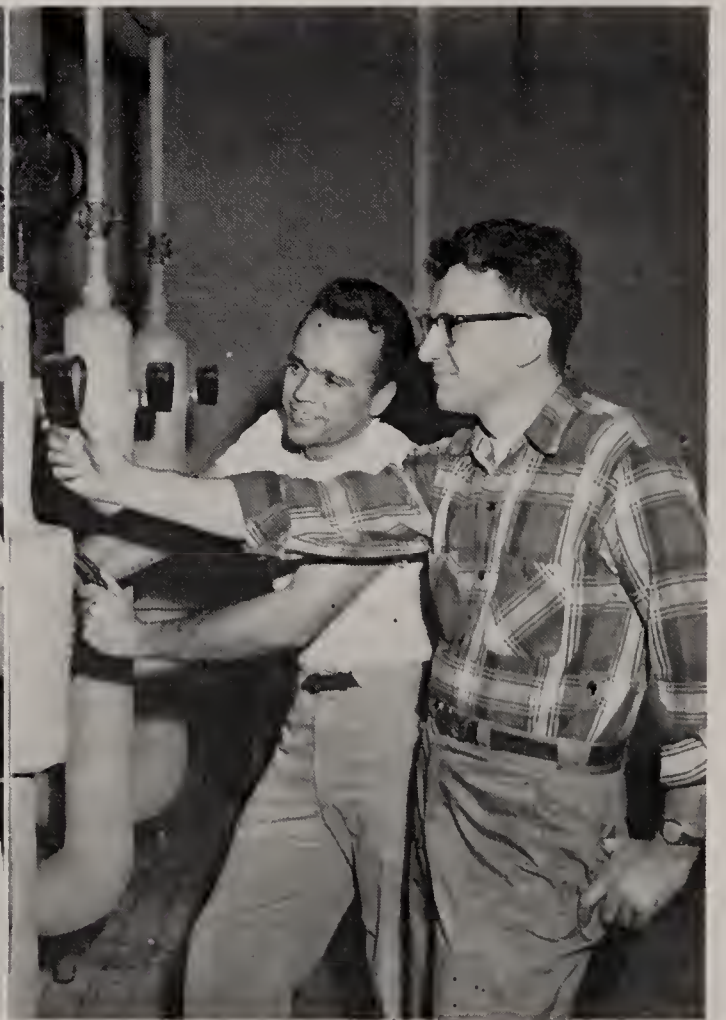

The custodians were the "men behind the scenes" who were working morning, noon, and night to keep our school spotlessly clean.

Annie Woodhams relaxed for a moment between trips from Central to Eastside.

Mrs. Rice, Mrs. Miller, and Mrs. Rogers, our efficient cooks, wiped dishes after a busy lunch period.

Eddie Miller and Eldon Yoder checked the many gauges of the heating system.

Busses and supplies were essential.

Willard Reed, Tom Pletcher, Virgil Stump, Jr., Eldon Yoder, Noble Flowers, Darlene Conrad, and Wayne Sechrist were our friendly bus drivers.

Getting nearly one hundred thirty students to school and home again each day is no minor responsibility. Only extremely hazardous driving conditions could keep the drivers from performing their duties.

The bookstore supplied many essentials. Mrs. Rogers was in charge of the bookstore and book rentals.

Two of the assistants worked in the morning before school and two at noon.

Under Mrs. Roger's supervision Martha Hartman, Sharie Hoyt, Suzie Calbeck, and Carolyn Yeager every day sold school supplies.

Larry, Martha, and Dick.

Each year in the Nappanee Schools has brought new and wonderful experiences.

As freshmen we were bewildered by the activities of high school life. As sophomores we were no longer shy because we had advanced from the neophyte stage. Before we realized it, we were juniors receiving class rings, selling magazines, and planning the junior-senior reception.

At last we achieved our goal. Yes, we were seniors, many of us with records of excellence in the varied facets of school life and activities.

Our high school days are now completed; we face the responsibilities of life and will be able to conquer its problems because of having been students in N.H.S.

Meetings were called, minutes read.

In working toward the Junior-Senior Reception and the 1960 class trip, the junior class conducted a magazine sale, topping all records of previous classes. Another time-consuming project was that of planning and giving the Junior-Senior Reception; but even the seniors agreed that it was well worth our efforts.

All work and no play make any class a dull one; so that this could not happen to us, we had two class parties.

Jan Cleveland, Vice-President; Portia Mutschler, Secretary-Treasurer; Steve Price, President.

The sophomores had fun while working hard. Our class party was loads of fun; as for work, that came during our class project, which was selling candy. Pecan patties and mints were our specialties. A play "The Farmer's Daughter" was our contribution to the Halloween Festival.

Our Student Council members were Janet Burcham, Stanley Lopp, and Loren Berger.

Dan Geyer, President; Mary Duckwall, Secretary-Treasurer; Gwen Fisher, Vice-President.

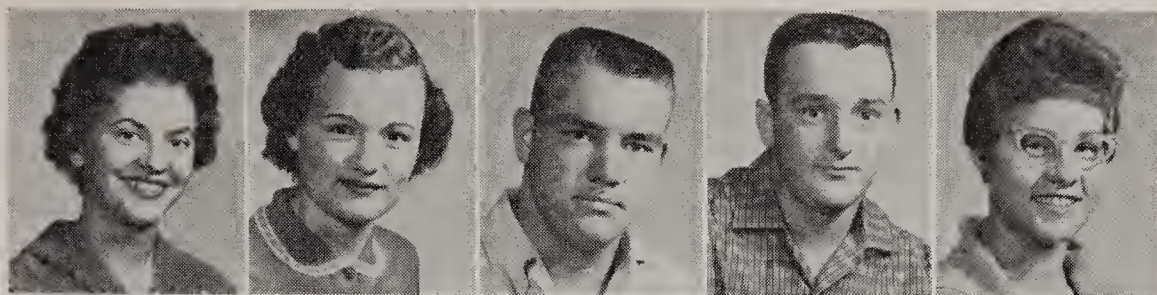

The freshman class was glad to see that first day of school arrive. It proved to be a year of much learning.

We had a party which was really fun. Looking to the future, in the spring we had our annual paper drive to add to our treasury.

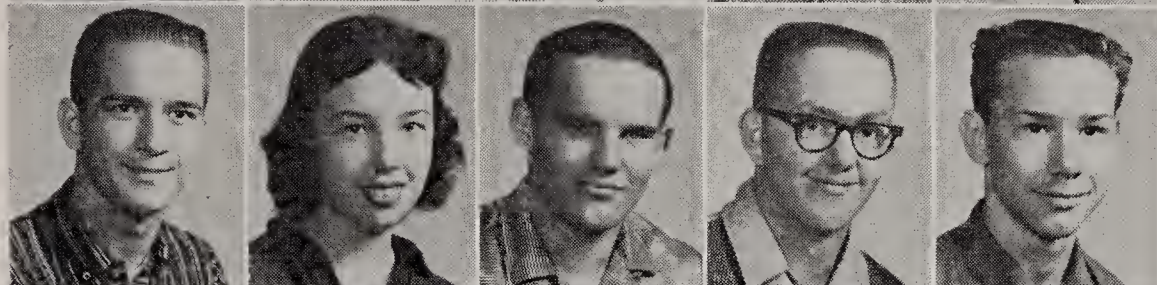

We found a lot of enjoyment participating in the Halloween festival with our variety show.

Carol Hoffer, Vice-President; Carol Hollar, Secretary-Treasurer; Karen Sue George, President.

in Sports

This year, as in the past, athletics was a type of entertainment that everyone enjoyed. In football, basketball, and track alike, we cheered and encouraged our teams on to victory.

It is a pleasure to look back on a year of so much success in all fields of athletics.

This year's Bulldogs again were very small in physical stature; but tremendous desire and team spirit produced another exceptionally fine record.

The 1958 team set a passing record.

The battle between undefeated Nappanee and Plymouth is considered one of the hardest played games on Memorial Field.

Led by all-state guard Phil Arnott, the Bulldogs will lose through graduation guard Denny George, tackle Larry Nunemaker, end Jim Pippenger, half-back Dick Pletcher, fullback Lee Price, guard Tom Richmond, and end Larry Stutzman.

Mr. Young, Mr. Springer, and Mr. McKee coached the boys to victory.

Managers were Gary Eastlund, Joe Schmeltz, Dan Geyer, and Dale Fink.

Practice meant tackles, touchdowns.

Bulldogs practiced running low through the linesmen chute.

The seven men blocking sled helped the boys gain additional strength.

One of the mighty Bulldogs tackled a member of the opponents' team.

Dick Pletcher ran for a touchdown.

No team can succeed without hours and hours of concentrated effort in the techniques of tackling, running, blocking, and sundry other skills.

After the first call for practice on August 15, forty-some boys drilled mercilessly twice, perhaps three times a day to get into condition.

During the playing season four practices a week were the rule. Behind every minute of play were hours of grueling work.

Gary Culp, Linda Heckaman, Karen Sue George, and Vonda Wysong backed the Bulldogs all the way.

“Fight, team!” Cheerleaders did, too.

Vonda, Karen Sue, Gary, and Linda were the peppy cheerleaders. They worked hard practicing and introducing yells.

They were elected by the student body to lead the cheering during football and basketball seasons.

Early in the year they attended Cheerleading Conference at Indiana University, bringing back with them many new yells.

Whether teams won or lost, these four always showed good sportsmanship.

Front Row: George Freese, Gary Stutzman, Mike Mitchell, Jan Cleveland, Tom Richmond, Windy Sheets, John Coppes.

Hardwood quintets played hard

The Bulldog Basketteers did not sport a too impressive record; however, there were several high spots throughout the season.

The Naps showed their potential in an early season battle with the Elkhart Blue Blazers by dropping a one point decision to them.

As the season progressed they met a tall Goshen team and defeated the Redskins in another one point thriller.

Avenging a close holiday tourney loss to Plymouth's sectional champs, the Bulldogs defeated the Pilgrims in a later season contest.

Lost by graduation will be center Larry Nunemaker, forward Jim Pippenger, guard Tom Richmond, forward Jim George, forward Windy Sheets, and Mike Pippenger.

The promise of bleachers for the Eastside gym assures a new cage in '59-'60 for the mighty Bulldogs.

to bring glory to old Alma Mater.

Windy Sheets, Tom Richmond, Jim Pippenger, Larry Nune-maker, Mike Pippenger, and Jim George were the seniors of the varsity team.

Goals and free throws helped win.

This year's Bulldogs started very slowly; after winning the first two contests, the junior Bulldogs dropped six games in a row. They then came back and beat Plymouth in a holiday tourney at Elkhart. The boys finished the rest of the season above average.

At times much potential was shown, which should be very valuable as varsity players in the coming years.

Jim Pippenger sank a right-hander despite the effort of the opponent to stop him.

Joe Springer, Don McKee, and Jerry Young were our capable coaches.

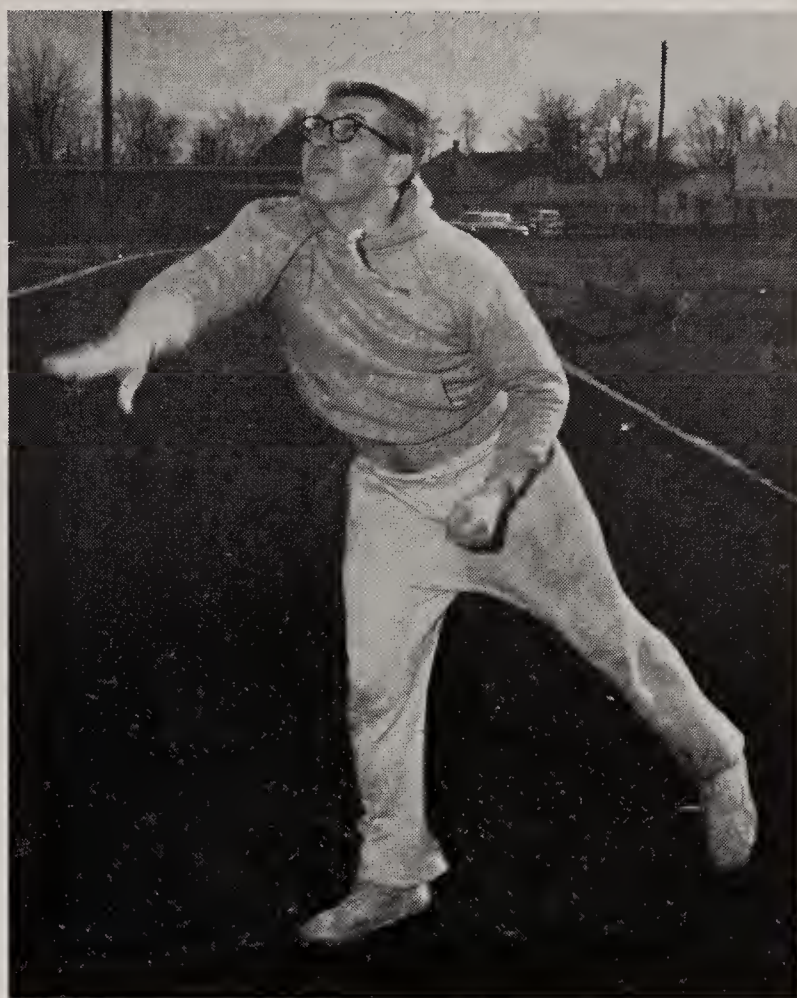

The managers were Tom Lehman, Joe Schmeltz, and Gary Eastlund.

for cindermen.

Enthusiasm for track at N.H.S. indicated that its popularity as a major sport was increasing. The aroused interest of the student body and people of the community brought larger crowds to every home meet. Memorial Field continued to increase its importance by hosting many dual and triangular meets.

The highlights of the season were Nappanee's participation in the famous Goshen and Kokomo Relays. Every year the Bulldogs have shown well in several individual and relay events.

The returning lettermen from last year were sprinters Dick Pletcher and Jay Stouder, quarter miler Dale Fink, half miler Chuck McFall, and shot putter Larry Nunemaker. Along with these boys were many good prospects for another successful track season.

"Hercules" L. Nunemaker tossed the shot put with ease.

Dale Fink and Chuck McFall ran the last lap of the mile. Phil Evans jumped hurdles. Jay Stouder and Dick Pletcher passed the baton in relays.

Many competed in Intramurals.

Teams were well matched in basketball.

The purpose of the intramural program was to give the boys who did not participate in varsity sports an opportunity to demonstrate their athletic skills.

Volleyball, bowling, basketball, and ping-pong were the sports included.

Fred Swihart held honors in bowling with a high game series of three hundred twenty-five pins, without handicap.

Mr. Hartle led the scoring with one hundred eighty-eight pins for a single game.

Lee Price succeeded in reaching number one position in basketball scoring.

Fred Swihart and Stephen Zinkiw were among top scorers in intramural bowling.

Rob Lehman and Steve Hockert matched skills in a game of ping-pong.

The year ended for 1959 Eastsiders.
